of their armed foes. Nearly 2500 have been added in battle. More than 85:0 have been wounded. The missing, manly prisoners of war, number more than 3.400. In addition to these horses, more than 1,000 have died of disease, making the total loss thus far nearly 16,000. These figures present interesting contrasts with the records of the United States forces in the war with Spain.

Then less than 300 Americans were *killed. Only about 1,500 were wounded.

But more than 6,000 died of disease.

The total was about half as great as the losses of the British in South Africa. but the death list from disease was six fully eight times as many British soldiers as the number of Americans killed as numerous as their killed. In the war with Spain the United States had more than five times as many men wounded as killed. We lost no prisoners, practically speaking, while the British have These con rasts show how much more frequent and persistent the fighting has been in the Bier war and how much better the Boers have been shooting than the Spaniards shot. The great difference in the number of deaths from disease is mainly due to the fact that the British troops have been in camp for a much shorter period than the time the American volunteers lived in tents in the summer of 1898. Another strong influence operating to insure a small death list from disease has been the great difference in healthfulness between the chmats of Cuba and that of South Africa. One region was exceptionally bad for men of Northern countries, in the hot season, while the other is very salubrious. If the end of the war in South Africa is not very near the final footings of the British losses will be at least 25,000. That will make the totals for the war between this country and Spain look very small. But ours was an easy war, mainly won on the sea. - Kan-

The correspondent says his statement was prepared by a tending banker of New York, and was based on returns made by some of the largest mercantile houses in the country. The trades represented are wholesale and retail dry goods. wholesale groceries, tobacco, organs, silks, hardware, formture, packing, gloves, clothing, leather, cloaks, collars and cuffs and boots and shoes.
